Arlington City Council Discusses Brush Grown Up Along Railroad Street

By Michael Toon
Carlisle Weekly

The October 8, 2012, Arlington City Council Meeting began with the approval of the previous meeting's minutes and the approval of the treasurer's report.

City Clerk Anita Lambert reported that the Arlington Fire Department had received a grant this month, and that part of that money was used to make a payment on the fire truck, with the remainder going into the Fire Department's checking account. The money that is in the account is to be used on equipment purchases only.

In the cemetery report, Councilman Paul Gaddie reported that trees have been trimmed and stumps have been ground down in the cemetery.

In the Parks and Activities report, Councilwoman Jada Burgess said that she wanted to thank Arlington and the surrounding community for the support that was given for the First Annual Arlington Apple Festival. Burgess also thanked the Arlington Fire Department for all their help before, during and after the event.

Burgess reported there was a lot of participation in the event, as 58 entries were in the pageant, 16 in the bake off and numerous others in the corn hole tournament and talent show.

Arlington Mayor Bobby McGee thanked all of those who put in the effort and work to make it a success, and thought it was a great event. The Second Annual Arlington Apple Festival will be held on September 21, 2013.

Burgess concluded her Parks and Activities report by stating that the Arlington Halloween Parade will be held on Halloween, with a registration of costume contest entrants at 4:00 p.m. on Front Street in Arlington and the contest beginning at 4:30. Burgess also announced that the Christmas Parade is slated for December 1, 2012, 10:00 a.m., and invited the public to attend and participate in the event.

In the Daily Operations report, Mayor Bobby McGee said mowing, ditch clean-up and some roofing on City Hall happened during the last month, along with normal day-to-day operations.

Under old business, Councilman Jason Bogle rehashed a conversation concerning CN Rail Lines who owns the property along Railroad Street, where trees and other brush have grown up to unsightly levels. Bogle felt that CN needed to clear those trees and brush out and upkeep the area, just like regular everyday property owners in Arlington have to do themselves via the city ordinance.

Mayor McGee agreed with Bogle's statement, and recommended the city send CN Rail Lines a notice and if the situation is not taken care of, cite them for unkempt property.

Under new business, the first reading of the City of Arlington Codification resolution was held, and a motion was made to take $10 out of the city checking account and put it into the city cemetery savings account which is at a zero balance. The $10 deposit would prevent any penalties for lack of activity in the savings account.

With there being no further business, the October 8, 2012, Arlington City Council meeting came to a close.

Dual Credit Classes Offer Unique Opportunitites to Carlisle County High Students

By Michael Toon
Carlisle Weekly

As I was a senior at Carlisle County High School in 1998, some of the juniors who would soon compose the CCHS Class of 1999 received the opportunity to take dual credit courses that would count towards their high school curriculum, as well as towards the classes that they needed for their upcoming futures in college. Those classes, in 1998, were only limited to a handful of students.

Fast forward to 2012 and out of the 65 seniors in the Carlisle County Class of 2012, 61 (95%) are currently taking some form of dual credit courses. In addition five Carlisle County High Juniors are taking classes.

Things that have increased that number of students participating in the program drastically in the last 14 years have been the introduction of high speed internet from dial-up connection, and new relationships between high schools and universities, as the importance of helping high school student adjust to college life and college level classes have been critical to successes of not only the students who enroll in college, but the colleges themselves. Currently West Kentucky Community and Technical College, along with Murray State University are working with the Carlisle County School System to make these programs and classes happen to jump start these high school student's college careers.

The classes include English 101 and 102, Psychology, Contemporary Issues in Agriculture, Personal Finance, Foods and Nutrition, and Transitions to Algebra to name a few.

All of the classes are taught by Carlisle County High School teachers, online professors, and a professor from West Kentucky Community and Technical College comes in to teach classes as well.

Students have to pay for the classes, but most of those financial needs are met through Mr. and Mrs. Robbie and Lisa Rudolph, whose scholarship program has helped Carlisle County students cover the costs for those classes. Another scholarship that is utilized is the Mary Jo Young Scholarship.

With students being able to go to high school and take college courses at the same time, some students are walking across the stage with their diploma at Carlisle County High School with 20-30 hours of college credits in their pockets before they even step foot on a campus.

When speaking with Jay Simmons, Director of Pupil Personnel at the Carlisle County School System, he told the Carlisle Weekly that it has helped students both academically and financially. "Dual credit classes have enabled our students to gain confidence academically and in the long run it helps them financially as well, as their core classes are taken care of, which translates to less time to complete their college degree and less time paying college tuition," Simmons said.

Carlisle County Adult Education Center Provides Educational and Career Enhancement Services

Carlisle County has a wonderful resource that many may not be aware of. The Carlisle County Adult Education Center, located at 300 Front Street in Bardwell, serves not only those wishing to take the GED (General Education Development) test, but anyone who wishes to improve their employment situation.

One of the services offered is the WorkKeys test. This is a test given for the National Career Readiness Certification, required by many companies, including many of the plants located nearby in Calvert City. The NCRC certifies that the prospective employee is skilled in certain areas considered to be valuable to employers. We are able to offer three sections of the test free of charge. Adults who wish to attend college or vocational school must take the COMPASS or ACT test. We can assist students in improving those test scores and eliminate the need to pay for developmental courses. Residents who are lacking a high school diploma need to work to obtain their GED certification now. In just over a year, the GED test will be changing; it will become more difficult, will cost much more, have a more complicated format, and be all computerized. Anyone who has put off working on their GED should act now. While our services are free of charge, the actual GED test costs $60.00. (This will increase to $124.00 when the test change goes into effect.) This cost is prohibitive to many prospective students. Individuals, business, or organizations are welcome to donate to fund scholarships for those who can't afford the entire cost of the test. While the latest census reports that there are over one-thousand residents in Carlisle County without a high school diploma, very few of those residents are coming through our door. We ask that citizens please encourage their friends and family members who need a GED diploma or employment assistance to call the Adult Education Center at 628-9339.

By Michael Toon

The proclamation reads as follows:
To All To Whom These Presents Shall Come,
WHEREAS, Kentucky's retired teachers have devoted their careers to the education and training of literally thousands upon thousands of Kentucky's youth; and WHEREAS, Kentucky's retired teachers have retrained and/or provided primary educational opportunities to hundreds of adults in the state who for one reason or other, had fallen behind in the formal education needed for job and social skills, and WHEREAS, Kentucky's retired teachers rendered valuable services in diverse leadership roles in their communities and institutions throughout their careers and continue to render such services as retirees; and WHEREAS, Kentucky's retired teachers represent the profession, which is given the basic responsibility for launching the careers of state and national leaders and for laying the foundation for the welfare of all members of our society; and WHEREAS, Kentucky's retired teachers have toiled ceaselessly to improve the quality of life in the state and nation, too often in less than adequate circumstances and for less than adequate pay; and WHEREAS, Kentucky's retired teachers represent a tremendous pool of experience and training which remains dedicated to the betterment of society everywhere; and WHEREAS, Kentucky's retired teachers represent a loyal, patriotic, and concerned citizenry, which provided a dedicated and dependable support to the leaders in our communities, state, and nation.

The proclamation was signed by Carlisle County Judge Executive Greg Terry and current Carlisle County Courthouse Security Guard and long-time retired educator, Nicky Burgess was on hand to take a photo with Judge Executive Terry after signing the proclamation.

If you see a retired teacher in the community next week, thank them for all they have done in molding our community.

When Jesus Passes By

Bartimaeus was only expecting a hand out from someone passing by as he sat at the gate on the outskirts of Jericho. It was his custom being blind to sit and beg for coins or food as people went by. He even wore a certain garment to identify him as a blind man in need of other's sympathy.

On this particular day there seemed to be an unusually large number of people passing by him and he wanted to know why so many and why so noisy. Jesus was passing by they said. He's been in Jericho and no one there wanted a touch from Him. How sad that there were needy people in Jericho but none would admit their need or that Jesus could meet that need.

Life is full of missed opportunities. How often the good news is offered to us and we don't reach out or cry for Jesus to have mercy on us. In church we have heard the good news of salvation, healing, deliverance, a better way of life in Christ, but we don't move to respond to God's invitation. The airwaves of radio and television satellite systems broadcast the news 24 hrs a day that Jesus is near, in our hearts and in our mouths. If we will only confess our need for Him and cry out, He will hear and answer us. But in Jericho they were the same way, no one cried, Jesus didn't stop but went on His way to another place and another person.

But Bartimaeus heard that Jesus was passing right by Him and he began to cry for Jesus to stop and have mercy on him. But the people with Jesus tried to make the blind man stop crying. Perhaps the visit to Jericho had dulled their perception of what Jesus was all about. Perhaps they thought Jesus schedule was too busy to stop.

Perhaps they thought this poor blind man was not good enough to warrant stopping the Master. Maybe they thought, well Jesus has given attention to one at a time in the past but He's in to mass healing now so He simply cannot be bothered with just the cry of one blind beggar. But the more they tried to silence the blind man, the more he cried, "Jesus, Son of David, have mercy on me."

By his persistence, he got the attention of the Master. Suddenly the calling became reversed and Jesus began to call the blind man! Isn't it amazing that God just wants us to be persistent in calling out to Him so He can be persistent in calling out to us? Come to me, he says! Come and believe! Come and yoke up with me and your burdens I will carry! Your sins I will forgive! Your body I will heal! Your broken life I will mend! Be of good comfort! Get up and come to me Jesus says!

Bartimaeus threw away his garment that said he was blind, for he knew he would never need it again! Beloved when we come to Jesus in faith we will never be the same again! What will you have me to do for you, Jesus says? Lord, that I might receive my sight! What will you have Jesus do for you today? Don't be afraid, only believe. Make your request known to Him and prepare to receive from the Master's hand.

Jesus is absolutely amazing! Just tell Him what you need and hear His reply. Go your way now; your faith has made you whole! Immediately you will receive! Now follow Jesus! (Mark 10: 46-52).

ONE PRESSON'S VIEW

By Kay Presson

As Halloween approaches, memories of past Halloweens inspire me to write and share with you, the wonderful readers of the Carlisle Weekly some of my thoughts and memories.

For seven and a half years my family lived in Thomas Jefferson Apartments and Elmwood Court, two of the public housing projects in Paducah.

Folks, Halloween was the holiday us "project kids" looked forward to more than any other, even Christmas.

We had the opportunity to dress in very imaginative costumes and go trick or treating. We were "poor folks" and candy was such a treat to us kids. The six children in our family would dump our bags of candy on the dining table and we would split it evenly amongst each other.

Yes, Halloween memories do inspire me, and next week there will be some photos from Halloween past in Bardwell.

This week's inspiration

This week's inspiration from scripture verses Job 1:1, 2:1-10: God seemed to be far away at the darkest time of Job's life. The writer of Job may have also felt the absence of God. Pain hits us hard. We may share the same tragedy with someone but not the same pain. We need to feel God when we've been dealt a hard blow. To not feel Him can be devastating. We need to remind ourselves that God created us in love. Faith doesn't take away our problems but we are to remain faithful. Job's faith was an unselfish one knowing that even though bad things might happen, God is good. Thankfully, we don't have to go through the tests that Job had to endure. We are to respond faithfully because of who Jesus is to us – our Lord and Redeemer.

Carlisle District Judge Participates in District Judge’s College

FRANKFORT, Ky., Oct. 5, 2012 – District Court Judge Louis K. Myers (Keith) who serves (Ballard and Carlisle counties), participated in the 2012 Kentucky District Judges College that took place Sept. 16-19 at Lake

Barkley State Park in Cadiz. The Administrative Office of the Courts provided the judicial education program for the state’s District Court judges. The program included 19 hours of continuing education credit for the judges.

The judges received updates on case law and legislation and attended sessions on best practices, technology, probate, extradition and cyber stalking. They also heard from Chief Justice of Kentucky John D. Minton Jr. about the work of the Kentucky Access to Justice Commission, which was formed to identify the most pressing legal needs of those unable to afford lawyers and create a statewide plan to address those needs.

“Civil legal aid is a critical resource for low-income families who can’t afford an attorney for evictions, child custody issues and other matters,” said Jefferson District Court Judge Donald E. Armstrong, acting president of the Kentucky District Judges Association. “Chief Justice Minton encouraged the district judges to support Kentucky’s civil legal aid efforts by letting citizens know how to find legal assistance and improving court processes for those with limited access to attorneys.”

The college also included sessions on substance abuse issues, including courses about ignition interlock devices, drug testing and the Intoxilyzer equipment used statewide for breath-alcohol testing.

District Court judges handle juvenile matters, city and county ordinances, misdemeanors, violations, traffic offenses, probate of wills, arraignments, felony probable cause hearings, small claims involving $2,500 or less, civil cases involving $5,000 or less, voluntary and involuntary mental commitments and cases relating to domestic violence and abuse. In Fiscal Year 2011, there were 707,459 District Court cases statewide.

FSA Prepares to Issue CRP and DCP Payments

Lexington, KY – October 2, 2012 - USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) Kentucky State Executive Director John W. McCauley, announced that FSA will issue Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) and Direct and Counter-cyclical Program (DCP) payments during the first few weeks of October.

"FSA will issue the payments timely as long as all producer eligibility requirements are met," said McCauley.

CRP and DCP payments could be affected if producers have not submitted the required Adjusted Gross Income (AGI) forms. Affected producers will need to submit the proper AGI forms before payments can be issued. In addition, producers who signed up for CRP emergency haying and grazing and did not pay in advance will notice that their annual rental payment was reduced by the acreage that was hayed or grazed.

"Producers who were affected by county office consolidations should not experience payment delays," said McCauley. "All county office payments, regardless of consolidations, will be generated at the same time as long as all other eligibility requirements are met," he said. For more information on CRP and DCP payments, contact your local County FSA office.

Kentucky Drivers Entering Peak Season for Deer Collisions

Louisville, KY (October 4, 2012) – If asked to identify the most dangerous animal in the United States, most people, depending on where they live, would likely point first to a bear, mountain lion, alligator or even a shark. While those all seem like logical choices, statistics from the Insurance Information Institute reveal that the deadliest animal roaming the countryside is actually the white-tailed deer.

According to the Insurance Information Institute’s estimates, each year across the nation white-tailed deer are responsible for tens of thousands of injuries and the deaths of approximately 150 Americans simply by causing car accidents. Those collisions also carry the hefty price tag of $4.6 billion annually in insurance claims. Nationally, Kentucky is considered a “medium risk” state for the likelihood of drivers colliding with deer, ranking 22nd overall last year in collision frequency. Data from the Kentucky State Police (KSP), however, shows that these collisions have defined seasonal peaks. More than 47% of all collisions with deer in Kentucky take place during the months of October, November and December.

Analysis by the Highway Loss Data Institute reveals that an average of 14.1 animal collisions per 1,000 drivers occurs nationally each November. Kentucky Farm Bureau (KFB) Insurance claims data shows that drivers statewide nearly doubled the national average in November of 2011, hitting deer on roadways at a clip of 28.05 per 1,000 drivers. As a result of those collisions, KFB Insurance customers filed more than $4.2 million in claims during November alone.

For the entire year of 2011,

KSP data reports Kentuckians were in a total of 2,976 automobile collisions with deer, resulting in 146 injuries and three deaths. Approximately $19.6 million in KFB Insurance deer collision claims were filed in 2011, but nearly 45% of those claims resulted from accidents occurring in the three-month peak season of October, November and December.

“Looking at numbers historically we can easily predict deer collision claims are going to rise dramatically in the fall and peak in November,” said Bill Reddington, KFB’s Director of Actuarial Services, “but we are also careful to remember that these are not just numbers. These are real people experiencing real accidents. We hope that by calling attention to this annual spike in deer strikes we can increase driver awareness and help prevent tragedy on Kentucky’s roads.”

Why are deer seen and struck on the roadways more often during this time of year? These three months are also the peak season when deer are breeding, and the animals are less inclined to shy away from busy highways and speeding automobiles if other deer are nearby.

As October is now here, Kentucky’s drivers are entering the peak three-month season for deer collisions. Motorists need to be aware of this hazard and recognize that they are twice as likely as usual to hit a deer on the road in the months of October and December. In November that probability climbs higher still as drivers in most Kentucky counties are three times as likely to collide with a deer on the road. Furthermore, there are 30 counties where drivers become four to seven times as likely to hit a deer during November’s peak season.

With the anticipated jump in activity from deer found on the roadways, motorists should drive slower and be aware of their surroundings even more than usual. Deer are most likely to be seen at dusk and dawn near tree-lined roadways or areas that transitions from open fields to forest or water, but drivers must remember that deer are wild animals and often exhibit unpredictable behaviors when on or near road.

KFB advises motorists to drive defensively on the roadways this fall, especially when headed into wooded areas where deer are prevalent.

Tips to help drivers avoid deer collisions:

Watch for deer crossing signs. These signs are posted to warn drivers that certain stretches of the road are commonly populated with deer. Do not ignore the warning.

Be aware of the time. Deer are most commonly seen along roadways in the early morning and evening hours. Exercise additional caution if traveling during these times of day.

When driving after dark, use high-beam headlights to increase the range of vision.

If a deer is spotted on or near the road, slow down immediately.

Don’t swerve if a deer is in the road. Brake firmly but keep the vehicle headed in a straight line. A swerving vehicle can confuse the animal and prevent it from picking a direction to flee, and, worse yet, the driver could lose control and hit a tree or another car.

Always wear a seatbelt. The Kentucky State Police says that most people injured or killed in automobile collisions with deer are not wearing seat belts.

SCHOOL NEWS

1st Kentucky Bank to Hold Video Contest

[Mayfield, KY, 10/4/12] – Today’s kids know everything about everything, but how much do they know about the using money wisely? First Kentucky’s participation in the Lights, Camera, Save! contest seeks to answer that very question.

“Lights, Camera, Save! will allow teens to role play and record their thoughts about saving and using money wisely,” explained Laura Stinson, Director of Marketing, “It’s a way to get kids thinking about money management and its relevance to their lives and future.”

The video contest encourages youth to use video to communicate the value of saving and inspire others to become smart money managers.

“The contest is meant to be fun and exciting but when all is said and done, we hope teens will take action and start young to save more,” Stinson added.

To participate, students aged 13-18 can stop by First Kentucky for an entry form and contest details from Nov. 1 through Nov. 30. First Kentucky will host the first round of judging and will submit one winning video to compete on the national level.

Students can win up to $3,000 to fund their savings goal, plus $1,500 for their school.

Lights, Camera, Save! is a part of the Teach Children to Save campaign, a national movement of volunteer bankers who guide young people towards lifelong savings habits. Since 1997, the campaign has reached some 5 million young people with the help of more than 100,000 banker volunteers. Learn more about the contest at www.aba.com/ABAEF/LCS/Pages/default.aspx or at www.firstkentucky.com.

Money Tips for Students, October 2012 Time to Start Repaying Student Loans

If you finished college in May and have student loans, it’s almost time to begin repaying them. These tips from the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA) may help.

One of the smartest things you can do is pay more than your scheduled payment amount. The extra is applied to the principal, so you will pay less interest over the life of your loan.

As a student loan borrower, you should let your lender know if you change your name, address or phone number; if something changes your status, such as going back to school; or if you have problems making your payments.

You have several repayment plans from which to choose. The standard repayment plan calls for equal monthly payments over 10 years. The minimum monthly payment is usually $50. Other options include:

- Graduated repayment, which starts with lower repayment amounts that get higher over the maximum 10-year period.
- Income-sensitive repayment, with monthly payments based on gross income.
- Income-based or income-contingent repayment, with monthly amounts based on income and family size. The maximum period is 25 years, with any balance remaining at the end of 25 years forgiven.
- Extended repayment, which lets you take up to 25 years to repay your student loans if you borrowed more than $30,000 and none of your loans were made before October 7, 1998.

You will pay more interest over the life of the loan if you use any option other than standard repayment.

If you are having trouble making payments, contact your lender immediately. You may qualify for a deferment or forbearance, which can let you make lower payments or stop making payments temporarily.

KHEAA is the state agency that administers Kentucky’s grant and scholarship programs, including the Kentucky Educational Excellence Scholarship (KEES). It provides financial literacy videos at <http://itsmoney.kheaa.com>. KHEAA also provides free copies of “It’s Money, Baby,” a guide to financial literacy, to Kentucky schools and residents upon request at publications@kheaa.com.
